

Treasury Department,

Bureau of the Mint,

Washington, D. C. September 28, 1893.

O. C. Bosbysshell,

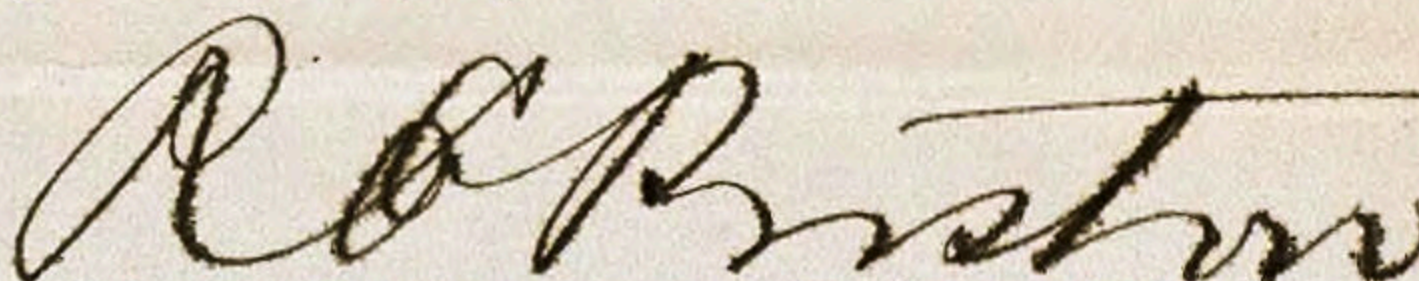

Supt. U. S. Mint,

Phila., Pa.

Sir:

Upon examination of our records, I find that a number of persons employed in your mint, who should have given bonds have furnished none. I find that neither the Assistant Coiner or the Cashier's Assistant have any bond on file, as well as the Assistant Assayer; all of these persons should be under bond; the Chief Clerk has given no bond as such. I think that all these persons occupying these positions should bond, and will thank you to give the matter your attention.

Respectfully yours,

Acting Director of the Mint.
